

You saw your mother as just that: a mother. Her parents saw her as a daughter. Both statements are correct, they just represent different perspectives. Let us keep that diversity as we are told about what happens outside of our own homes.